Having worked with Glacier Publishing Services and Jane Olivier on a number of projects for over a decade, I can confidently state that Jane's professionalism and publishing industry experience ensure a well designed, high quality product that is delivered in a timely manner at a very competitive price. Jane is a seasoned, integral player on a publisher's team and is valued for her knowledge of the business, artistic talent, thorough understanding of a project's requirements, and commitment to customer satisfaction!

Good Knight Books, and Southwest Sales Representative, Sheridan Books

I can always count on Glacier to get the job done, even under very tight deadlines. Jane really knows the publishing business and provides great ideas, sound advice, and practical solutions to every project.

American Water Works Association

I have worked with Jane for nearly 15 years. She has always insisted on attention to the smallest detail, maintained the highest standards for all the projects that come to Glacier, and treated those with whom she works with fairness and consideration. I have worked with other project managers over the years, but given a choice, I would always work with Jane first. So, you can call one of those other project managers or you can call Jane. Which one is your book worth?

—Sheryl Tongue, Stone Hill Graphics

Jane truly understands every facet of book publishing, which makes the entire process run smoothly. She has a great team of individuals who work well together and really care about the end product. With Jane managing the intricate details of your book-publishing needs—offering choices that others with less experience may overlook—you'll have a book you can be proud of.
